What Is JRSO?

The latest updates

What is JRSO? Junior Road Safety Officer, JRSO for short is a small number of pupils from Rendlesham Primary School and others in the area that will contribute toward encouraging people of all ages to act responsibly when near a road. This job has been presented to us by the Suffolk County Council, as of this moment there is a website telling you all about it! This website is accessible by the public. The JRSO will involve other pupils in promoting road safety, and to encourage pupils to behave responsibly near roads. The officers will monitor the area outside of the local primary school. If you have any concerns about road safety you can contact them via the school's email, this will be coordinated by teacher Lauren Arnold until she goes on maternity leave when a new member of staff will take over the role.

Who and how?

Who is the JRSO and how is it being run?

As of now our current Junior Road Safety Officers are Theo, Zachary Madeleine and Alexandra. You will be able to see them and get to meet them outside of school monitoring Road safety. Our Key stage 2 children will be doing this job until the end of this school year. Theo will be leading an assembly every term focused on road safety. He will ensure smaller children are able to cross the road safely and that cars aren't Parking where they shouldn't. This job is run by the Suffolk County council, if you would like any further Information on this, Visit the website or contact the council. <https://www.jrso.com>

If you are interested in Road Safety around the village and you want to help, unfortunately there are no specific roles, but you can help by Parking safe. Driving at a slow speed around the school and being mindful for children. All help will be greatly appreciated.
